An abstract is a summary of your entire thesis and its arguments for the reader that is no more than 300 words. It is located on a separate page AND entitled ABSTRACT.

Omission of an abstract OR not labeling the description as ABSTRACT will result in the non-acceptance of your submission until corrections have been made.
ABSTRACT

The abstract of a thesis/dissertation explains the nature of the research following and the arguments that are confirmed or refuted in the work. An abstract is separate from an “introduction” and is no more than 300 words. All theses/dissertations must include an abstract and be labeled as such.
